List of Publications

Women & Family Law 10th Edition 2014

An essential tool to assist women to understand the law as it impacts on their relationships with partners and children.

Our Dream...Stopping The Violence 3rd Edition 2015

This information booklet is about domestic violence and the law in NSW. It is designed primarily for Aboriginal women but may also be a useful resource for non-Aboriginal service providers. It looks at what domestic violence is, what you can do about it and what will happen at court if you apply for an AVO. It also addresses some common questions and lists services where you can obtain more information.

Our Silence Is Abusing Our Kids

Unique and innovative stories about Aboriginal women working locally to stop child sexual assault. Jointly produced by Dymrna House and Women's Legal Services NSW, the booklet contains interviews with community women and Aboriginal workers about their own efforts in their communities to protect children and support young people. Also contains vital information about child sexual assault.

Dealing with FaCS – Top Ten Tips

This information booklet has been prepared to help women and families deal with the government services in charge of keeping children safe. The main department with this job is called Family and Community Services, or 'FaCS' for short. This booklet explains the different types of actions FaCS can take at the early stages of contact with women and their families, provides tips for dealing with FaCS and includes a FaCS contact diary.

Sexual Assault - Your Rights and the Law

This resource has information for women and girls who have been sexually assaulted including what sexual assault means, getting medical help and counselling after a sexual assault, reporting to the police, the legal process and your rights.

Partnerships, Prevention And Rural Action III (Burrendong Report)

A Conference on Child Sexual Assault in Aboriginal Communities dated 15-19 October 2007 at the Sport and Recreation Centre, Lake Burrendong, Wellington

Is This Love? (Indigenous Pamphlet)

A resource made for young Aboriginal women about healthy and unhealthy relationships.

Is This Love? (Non-Indigenous Pamphlet)

A resource made for young women about healthy and unhealthy relationships.

GP Toolkit – When She Talks To You About The Violence

This toolkit has been developed to assist health workers in identifying and responding to women and children experiencing family violence. It contains information surrounding indicators of violence, documentation for legal purposes and safety planning. This toolkit is accompanied by a poster for display in waiting areas to encourage victims to disclose any violence to their doctor.
